THE CONGRESSMAN RECOUNT

To Decide Mosted Questions of Law. lonia Must Hurry Up-Yesterday's Little Tilte in the Recount.

Yesterday morning the congress recount committee counted the last twelfth ward. The result was a gain of one for Beiknap, two Richardson votes being thrown out. One Beiknap vote was found defective and was thrown out. The figures were: Belkuap, 208; Richardson, 150; Clute, 10.

On finishing the recount the attention of the committee reverted to the subject of the uncounted ballots which had been shown by the returns, not found in the boxes but afterward returned, and were still awaiting action. turned, and were still awaiting action.
Chairman Benjamin announced that he would refer the subject to John C. Fitz Gerald for a legal opinion. This raised a protest from the democrats. Mr. Turner suggested reference to M. J. Smiley and Jacob Kleinhans. Mr. Launiere was willing to entrust it to Mr. Fitz Gerald and Judge Champlin, but a recess was taken to 3:30, leaving the matter of reference open.

Mr. Turner offered the following statement and question, to be submitted to the legal advisers, whoever mitted to the legal advisers, whoever they might be:

"In the township of Plainfield the ballots in the box are eight short of the poll list and of the number of votes cast, as set forth in the official return, The count showed eight votes less for Mr. Richardson than the return and tally sheet in the box showed; and the tally sheet in the box showed that sight straight people's party votes had been cast and counted for Mr. Richardson. An examination of the ballots showed that these ballots were the ones missing from the box. Two of the inspectors afterwards appeared and filed affidavits and eight ballots."

"Question. Shall these eight votes be counted, or shall Mr. Eichardson be credited with eight votes more than the ballots actually found in the box showed?"

When the committee again convened Mesers. Taggart and Goss submitted a eight Plainfield ballots, but insisting that, in case the Plainfield votes were counted, the two missing ballots from Paris, which were also afterward re-Paris, which were also afterward returned, should also be recounted. Mr. Taggart said there were also other musing ballots in other townships. The affidavits submitted several days ago by the Par's inspectors were produced and read by the county clerk. The affidavit of Hugo E. Rathbun, township clerk, stated that he discovered the two ballots the day after the election; that they had been left on a charmed the count and overlooked. chair during the count and overlooked when the ballots were returned to the box. The affidavit of Justice of the Peace Horace H. Richards confirmed Peace Horace H. Richards confirmed Mr. Rathbun's statements. Mr. Taggart desired that the committee also refer to its legal advisers the question of whether the committee was legally entitled to go outside the ballot buxes to count any roles, which was practically agreed to.

tommitteemen Disagree. After a desultory discussion over minor points, including the alleged Sixth ward discrepancy, Chairman Benjamin announced that he would refer all the questions to Mr. FitzGerald. Mr. Laudiere wanted to know by what authority. Mr. Benjamin replied, "As chairman of this committee, but you may employ Judge Champlin at your own expense if you want to. There is no need for the county to pay two lawno need for the county to pay two law-yers for a legal opinion. I have en-gaged Mr. Fingerald." Mesers. Lau-niers and Turner protested on the ground that the opinions obtained should be entirely non-partisan, but Mr. Emmons believed that Mr. Fitz-Gerald was as good a man as could be appointed, which of course decided the matter. Thereupon Mr. Benjamin announced that the board was adpourned and would so remain until 2 p. m. Monolay, at which time Mr. Fitz-geraid's opinion would be submitted.

The usual courtesies of the commit-the usual courtemes of the committee were then exchanged. Mr. Turner said it was an outrage and that the minority had no decent treatment on the committee. Mr. Benjamin retorted that he had been treated like a dog by the democrate and harshly criticised for doing what, in his judgment, was right and proper.
